

WATER IN HARMONY WITH NATURE.

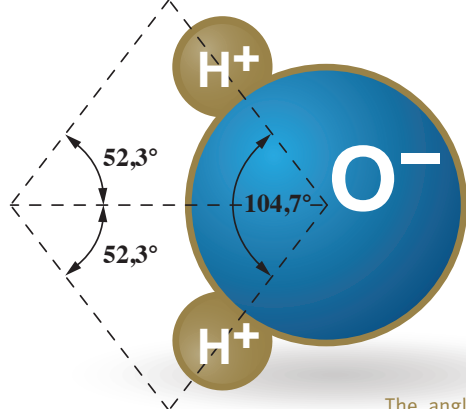

This is how the UMH technology functions: Flowing tap water is initially swirled centripetally and split into small streams. Then water passes through a highly effective vibration field, which is generated by specifically informed fluids, special gemstones and other natural energy sources. With the achieved surface area and the change in the crystal structure, the water feels softer.

Through direct contact with the energy field a reliable transmission of bioenergetic fields takes place. Thereby a positive reorganization of the physical structure of the water is achieved. At the same time the harmful information in the water is shown to be eliminated. (Opinion of Dr. Ludwig and Dr. Kohfink). Enjoy fresh water modeled after our nature.

»Water is life, but only if it's alive.« Dr. Kohfink

For legal reasons, the company UMH and all of their brands offer no promise of healing. The devices cannot be a substitute for medical care, and at best can have a supporting effect. The listed experts report and information on the effects are not currently recognized by doctors of conventional medicine and scientists alike. In the field of alternative medicine, however, it gains much more importance. The use of UMH products should not result in the replacement of treatment for health problems by a doctor or medical practitioner.

NATURAL
WATER TREATMENT

INSPIRED BY NATURE.

The only sustainable source of new vital energy is still nature, fresh air, energy-rich water, sunlight and natural food.

The Institute for Water and Environmental Improvement, based in Galicia/Carinthia, has for more than 20 years, intensively focused on natural water purification. The laws of nature serve as a role model.

All units in the company UMH are manufactured in loving small series and with exquisite craftsmanship. In addition to technical know-how, high quality materials and exclusive product design play a very special role.

»The soul of man is like water: from the sky it comes, to the sky it ascends, and down again to earth it is forced, eternally changing.« J. W. v. Goethe

WATER NEEDS STRUCTURE.

Graphite and diamond both consist exclusively of carbon and are thus considered chemically identical. But the different structures of the crystal lattice lead to completely different properties.

If we apply this to the water, it is not only the chemical composition, but also the structure and the degree of ordering of the water molecules that are of major importance.

WITHOUT ELECTRICITY, OR CHEMICALS.

The UMH technology is maintenance free and its effect is unlimited. It works according to purely physical principles without electricity or chemicals.

It is this natural method of water treatment that allows for the regeneration of feeble tap water. The energy value increases many times over.

»The principle of all things is water, because water is everything and everything turns back into water.«
Thales of Milet

Our current drinking water is often chlorinated, chemically cleaned and UV-irradiated. It is compressed under high pressure through long pipelines. In doing this, the original energetic quality of the water gets almost completely lost, and our cells may not be optimally supplied with water.

»The wise enjoy the water.« Confucius

Dr. Kohfink-Kalagin from the Institute of Radiology in Munich confirmed through his high frequency measurements the optimal reorganization of tap water after passing it through the UMH devices. He compared the quality with pure spring water from the Rocky Mountains.
